Dear Saveta:

Would you have happened to hear or know about Omens involving birthday candles? My grandmother on my dad's side is Welsh and when I was little and she was present for any family party she would insist the candles be lit but watched for a moment to see if they might reveal something special. Any thoughts on this Saveta?

Dear W.C.

Hopefully the following might be of interest...

For the birthday person, being honoured, if one or more candle(s)

produced a quick spark on the wick it is said to indicate an unexpected letter or correspondence coming likely connected to some kind of trip in the near future. A large glow on at least two or more candles foretells a windfall of money to whoever lit the candle(s). Candles burning with a steady "blue" flame indicate positive presence of spirits. After making a wish if... Any candles remain burning this was said to indicate (in increments of seven days)

"delays" before wishes asked for would come to pass. If all candles extinguished easily when blown and produces with lots of smoke, foretells some kind of "extra" or positive intent to the wish coming to be fulfilled.

what birthstone is for each month? I have a daughter who will be 21 years old in April and I would love to get something extra special made for her. She has always been keen on Astrology and healing with Crystals.

Dear Saveta:

My family and I have been enjoying your newsletter for about a year now but we've been curious about something concerning a particular superstition but haven't seen it mentioned. Could you please if possible tell us what you know about why horseshoes are considered such good luck? My family and I are avid flea market scavengers and recently picked up an old horseshoe at a sale that was tossed in with an assortment of antique tools my husband bought to decorate the family room. I'd love to display it but I was hoping to get some info first because I wanted to be sure about how to do it.

Dear Saveta:

Could you tell me if you happen to know

Dear L.T.

Thank you for the opportunity to be of service. The following list is the list I personally follow of how I believe gemstones and the twelve months of the year fall.

January = Garnet
February = Amethyst
March = Aquamarine/bloodstone
April = Diamond
May = Agate or Emerald
June = Alexandrite/Pearl
July = Ruby
August = Peridot/Sardonyx
September = Blue Sapphire
October = Opal/Tourmaline
November = Topaz
December = Turquoise or Blue Zircon

Dreamer's Corner

Dear Saveta:

My brother and I have been learning to "interpret" our dreams. We have learned through a workshop we took with you, how to "read" as to whether a dream is a) foretelling the future, b) is us talking to ourselves through our subconscious or c) a dream that just indicates psychological rambling not necessarily trying to forewarn about anything special. Our question to you is ... I have had a series (about 4 times in 10 days) of dreams where I find myself in a variety of dream situations involving what I believe are supposed to be Gypsies?? We've checked a number of dream dictionaries and have come up with nothing. Do you happen to have an idea of the significance to Gypsies in a dream.

B.R.Cambridge

Dear B.R.

I am delighted to know you are keeping up with your "studies" on your dreams. Dreams and their subsequent interpretation can and are wonderfully insightful into not only our future but into what makes us tick. In response to your question ... dreaming of a Gypsy or a Gypsy lifestyle indicates the dreamer's desire to break from the present routine. If dream images include travelling with Gypsies this reveals unhappiness ("internally") with present routine is strong and should be addressed. If the Gypsy or Gypsies are dancing the dreamer is revealing a specific desire to break from (if not at least experience a change with) their existing "sexual" routine. If Gypsy or Gypsies are reading fortunes this indicates a desire within the dreamer to change residence and or their job situations.
